

A player commits a fault if she/he:
 - drops the ball or dribbles the ball on the ground.

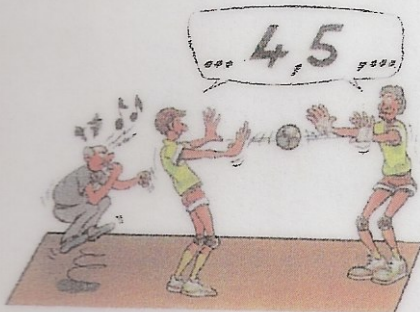

An innovative and unique approach to sports...

- takes more than three steps while in possession of the ball.

- makes the fourth pass for her/his team (the first pass after a point is not counted).

- intercepts, willingly or not, a pass of the other team (during a pass, before or after a shot at the frame).

- prevents the free movements of the other team.

- throws the ball on the metallic part of the frame and have it deviate from its expected trajectory.

- takes the fourth consecutive shot (total of both teams) on the same rebound surface.

- steps out of the limits of the field or into the forbidden zone while holding the ball.

- touches the ball with the body below the thigh.
